LAVA LAKE IN CAVE

NEWS OF VOLCANO
BY THE MAUNA LOA

Mrs. Waldron Says Fire in Kilauea's Pit Has Died Out—Howard Adams Repeats a Story.

Pele is evidently not thinking of giving a patriotic exhibition of fireworks on the Fourth of July. Although there have been signs of fire in the pit of Kilauea for several weeks past, and people have been hoping that the volcano would soon present a spectacle magnificent to behold, the report now comes from Hawaii that what little fire there was visible in the pit has entirely disappeared and nothing but thick clouds of black smoke are visible.

The steamer Mauna Loa, Captain Simerson, arrived promptly at noon today from Hawaii and Maui ports with a number of passengers and the usual large miscellaneous cargo.

Purser William K. Simerson communicated with the Volcano House just before the vessel sailed from Hawaii and learned from Mrs. Waldron, wife of the manager of the hotel, that the fire that had for weeks been visible in the pit had entirely disappeared.

Howard Adams, at one time purser of the steamer Naeau, was a passenger in the Mauna Loa. He comes to Honolulu on business, to remain a few days only, expecting to return to Hawaii when the Mauna Loa goes out. He visited the volcano early last month, when the fire in the pit was plainly visible. He says that there was a report on the island, when he left, that fire had been seen on the Kau side of the volcano, in a cave. It was said that molten lava had broken through the side, forming a small lake in this cave.

The Mauna Loa reports no rain along the Hamakua coast. Off the Kau coast a gale has been blowing for several days. Lumpy seas were experienced coming across the channel.

HELENE'S LARGE CARGO.

The schooner Helene arrived yesterday afternoon from San Francisco after a very fair passage of seventeen days. She brought a large cargo of general merchandise, about 1700 tons. On deck she brought about 250 pigs, some railroad ties and a 60-ton locomotive. On Monday the Helene sighted the steamship Enterprise bound north from Hilo. Four passengers arrived in the schooner, Mr. and Mrs. King, Mr. McElroy and Mr. Gordon. The vessel is now discharging at the Irmgard wharf.

Honolulu people are today making their final preparations for a good time on the glorious Fourth. From the indications, there will be the biggest celebration that has been seen here in many years. For this most desirable consummation credit must be given Secretary Cooper, the business men of the city who rallied to his assistance in such a splendid manner and the committees that have been working so diligently since they were appointed at the meeting in the Capitol Building.

Parade in Morning.
The first event on the program of the day's celebration will be the grand parade in the morning. Final arrangements for which were made this morning. A large number of merchants have signified their intention of sending a float and, besides these, there will be fire engines, decorated bicycles and a big military turnout. Arrangements have been made for seven companies of infantry, besides four field pieces and two Gatling guns, and the military display will undoubtedly be very imposing. Governor Dole will review the parade from a specially constructed stand on the Capitol grounds. Prominent officers of the Army and Navy will be with him on the stand, invitations having already been sent to them.

DISNEY WANTS WARRANT

Disney, the barkeeper who was so severely criticized by Judge Wilcox the other day in connection with the case of assault on D. K. Kawaha and who lost his job as a result of the trouble, called around at the police station this forenoon and expressed a desire to have a warrant sworn out for Judge Wilcox and Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth on the charge of slander. An attorney who was standing near by at the time whispered a few words of friendly advice into Disney's ear and he left the police station without another word.

The "slander" that Disney referred to consisted of remarks made by Judge Wilcox and the Deputy Sheriff when it was brought out in the evidence that the saloon keeper stood by and laughed and had a good time while the three young men did all manner of things to Kawaha.

The crews for the championship races are as follows:
Healini senior—F. B. Damon, stroke; Dan Renner, No. 3; Paul Jarrett, No. 2; S. A. Walker, bow; J. Tinker, coxswain.

FINE POINTS OF LAW ARGUED

Mate Lorenzen's Words Upon Becoming Conscious.

JUDGE ESTEE WANTS TO OBTAIN THE FACTS

Commissioner Gill Commits Two Alleged Swipes Dealers to United States District Court for Trial.

Mr. Lorenzen, lately first mate of the barkentine Irmgard, was on the witness stand this morning in the trial of his damage suit against the Inter-island and Steam Navigation Company. There was an argument on the objection of Mr. Lewis to a question by Mr. Dunne as to the words spoken by the complainant when he recovered consciousness after being knocked out with a sling of sugar from the hold of the steamer Naeau. On being asked by the court what he desired to prove, Mr. Dunne quoted from the deposition of Captain Schmidt of the Irmgard where it represented Lorenzen as saying, "I tried to dodge it, but I couldn't."

Mr. Dunne having confessed that he failed to find any authority bearing directly on the point, Judge Estee stated that he was thrown out of court many years ago on an identical question. "Of course the court may have been wrong, as lawyers sometimes are," the Judge remarked but ruled out the evidence.

Besides a model of the steamer Naeau there is exhibited a diagram of the Irmgard's deck. Mr. Lewis objected to the pointing out by witness of the place where he was standing when struck down, between the lower main rigging and the masthead backstays. The court said it was not altogether formal, as the diagram being imperfect could not be admitted as evidence, but thought they would get at the facts some way.

U. S. Commissioner Edwin S. Gill has committed Charles Fern and Kahanu to the Federal court for brewing swipes. They were arrested Saturday night last in a raid by the Internal Revenue and Marshall's officers. Defendants waived examination before the Commissioner and were admitted to $500 bail each, to appear before Judge Estee on Saturday next.

Judge Estee has confirmed the sale of the Austin Publishing Co.'s plant and the Paradise of the Pacific to William M. Lanston.

In the collision case of Waimanalo Sugar Co. vs. Steam Schooner Malolo, Judge Estee has allowed the parties until Monday next for concluding a settlement out of court.

A bond in $500 was deposited this morning on appeal of the owners of the schooner Kawaiili from Judge Estee's decree of condemnation for carrying contraband liquor.

MARTIN AT WAILUA.
John Martin, the solitary tramp of the Y. M. C. A. party who, when the rest on their trip around the island took the train from Kahuku to town, doggedly continued to foot it the rest of the way to town, via Wailua, and over the plains, was reported at Wailua yesterday afternoon. Martin was soaking wet but still cheerful and determined. Today he is walking to Pearl City where he intends to stay tomorrow to witness the festivities there.

PICNIC GIVEN UP.
The Y. M. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. people have given up their idea of having a joint picnic in Manoa valley on the Fourth as the recent rains have made the upper part of the valley very soggy and disagreeable.

In place of this picnic the Y. M. C. A. people will take those who were disappointed in the Manoa picnic on a tramp up Palolo valley to the old crater there. A. F. Cooke and W. L. Howard will act as guides.

WEIGHTY DELIBERATION
A ton of deliberation to an ounce of action would describe the meeting of the Executive Council today. It was in session from the middle of the forenoon until 1:30 p. m., and yielded but two matters of routine for the public's information.

E. S. Boyd, Commissioner of Lands, reported on his visit to Hawaii, and leave was granted him to open up Kaloakalan for settlement.

The Halewa Hotel Company, Wailua, was granted a renewal of its light wine and beer license.

The Kapolani Social and Athletic Club will give a reception and entertainment at the residence of Charles Oio this evening. It is the first entertainment given by the new club.

Boys at the Opera House should not be forgotten. People can go there and attend the ball afterwards. The boys favorably do the right thing by the public in giving it good, clean aquatic sports every year, and they now ask that the public return the favor by swelling the fund for the payment of their new shell.

AN EXIT THAT WAS NOT LOOKED FOR

Following close in the wake of the robbery at the Chillingworth place in Nuanu street, near School, the occupants of that household were again disturbed last night by another intruder who was undoubtedly a sneak thief.

The fellow walked in at the front gate at about 9:45 o'clock and entered the hallway. The house was brightly lighted and Attorney Chillingworth who was sitting on the veranda smoking arose from his secluded place in the corner and confronted the intruder, who was a white man and bore the marks of a sailor.

On being asked what he wanted, the fellow replied that he was after a drink. Mr. Chillingworth continued to ply the man with questions just to see what he really did want but on each occasion the same answer was given.

Evidently the intruder suspected some action for he could plainly hear in a room near by the noise of ping pong balls striking racquets and table. He moved toward the door and Mr. Chillingworth moved with him.

Seeing that the fellow really meant to get away, Mr. Chillingworth called out "Charlie." The noise of the ping pong balls suddenly stopped and from the dining room came the Deputy Sheriff, collar off and sleeves rolled up above the elbows.

A word of explanation, a swift motion, a punch, a kick, a slide and a million imaginary stars while swiftly passing through the gate and it was all over. There was no need for a warrant and the intruder has not yet explained why he was in the house.
